Frank Jakosz, CPA, Appointed to the AICPA Technical Standards Subcommittee of the Ethics Division

Frost, Rittenberg & Rothblatt, P.C. (FR&R) is delighted to announce that Frank Jakosz, CPA has been selected to serve on the American Institute of CPAs (AICPA) Technical Standards Subcommittee of the Ethics Division. Frank Jakosz is the Director of the Not-for Profit & Social Enterprise Practice at FR&R.

While only a select few are appointed by the AICPA Board of Directors each year, the Technical Standards Subcommittee is responsible for the investigation of complaints alleging violation of the rules of the Code of Professional Conduct relating to members' performance of professional services (i.e., violations of technical accounting or auditing standards). The Subcommittee may also identify issues concerning proposed revisions or additions to the Code.

Frank joined FR&R in 2012 bringing accomplished experience and expertise to the firm's expanding Not-for-Profit & Social Enterprise practice. Prior to joining FR&R in 2012, he served as the Not-for-Profit Audit Practice Leader for two global accounting firms. Frank conducts audits for a variety of not-for-profit organizations, including higher education, social services, trade associations, religious and membership organizations. With over 40 years of experience, his extensive knowledge, coupled with his career involvement in the AICPA and FASB, Frank is a nationally recognized senior leader in the NFP industry.

According to FR&R president, Richard S. Sgarlata, "This is an exciting opportunity for Frank and our firm to contribute to the professional standards upheld by our profession. We recognize that this is one of the highest honors in our profession and another example of how FR&R attracts top talent to serve our profession and our clients with the highest level of capabilities and credentials. We congratulate Frank on this commendable appointment."

About the AICPA

The AICPA represents the CPA profession nationally regarding rule-making and standard-setting, and serves as an advocate before legislative bodies, public interest groups and other professional organizations. The AICPA develops standards for audits of private companies and other services by CPAs; provides educational guidance materials to its members; develops and grades the Uniform CPA Examination; and monitors and enforces compliance with the profession's technical and ethical standards.
